

TimeSolvPay v. LawPay

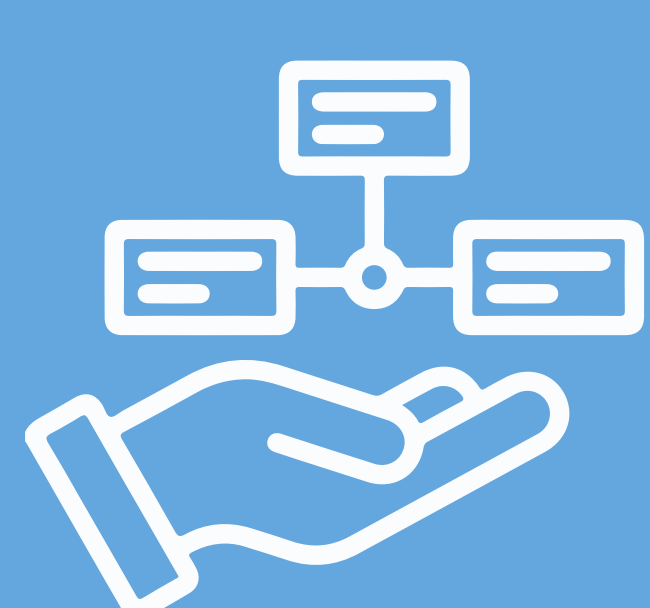

Billing for attorneys can be a headache, but letting your clients pay by credit card can simplify the process for you while also increasing their confidence in your firm.

Which payment processor is right for your firm? Let's compare TimeSolvPay's user-friendly solution with LawPay, a popular provider.

TimeSolvPay

TimeSolvPay is the built-in payment processor within TimeSolv, a comprehensive legal time-tracking and billing solution.

TimeSolvPay offers:

- Online or in-person payments
- Credit card, debit card, ACH payments, or electronic checks
- A custom-built online portal to track data and deposits
- Embedded into the TimeSolv software
- Flexible and customized billing options
- IOLTA or COLTAF trust accounting

Both solutions offer user-friendly solutions, but TimeSolvPay eliminates time-wasting in recording payments and allocating to invoices.

- Automatically allocates payments to invoices to mark as paid
- Batch generates payments for hundreds of invoices in one click
- Clients pay online via a link or through the TimeSolv portal
- Same-day approval of new accounts

If your team comes across a feature that seems unclear, these platforms offer:

- Single support center for TimeSolv and TimeSolvPay
- Knowledge base with a new users page to simplify account set-up
- Weekday, nationwide phone and email support

LawPay

LawPay is a law firm credit card processor that offers integrations with other law firm tools, but it doesn't provide additional features for managing legal practices.

LawPay offers:

- Credit card and eCheck/ACH payments
- Quick bills and scheduled payment options
- IOLTA trust accounting compliant
- A payment portal with integrated signatures
- 3rd Party integration with TimeSolv

- Payment links on invoices and QR codes to pay from phones
- Automated payments
- Accepts most payment options

- Customer support via phone and email
- Training sessions available by request
- Support center and FAQs
